

History of River Vale

by Dwight de Stefan, Robert Secor and Helen Whalen

"This book adds to those earlier efforts by putting stories as to how and why people first came to River Vale. We start to learn about street names that sprinkle our town and find that "James Lane" was not just the first name of a son of a developer, but a real person who lived in River Vale and one who helped craft what it is today." Former Mayor Joseph Blundo

*An old, historic, roadway through a quiet country town with sunny fields and meadows and woods of autumn brown.
A pleasant little school-house, with the Blue Hills at its back, and winding on before it, the murmuring Hackensack.*
